

Project Update: January 2014

2013 was quite devastating here in the Philippines. On behalf of my Filipino brothers and sisters, I wish to say thank you for your country (UK) in extending support for the victims of Typhoon Haiyan ('Yolanda', local name). As our project almost comes to an end, we wish to share our humble videos of what we have done in conserving Plecoptera fauna in the province available at <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=yoKJ9qQfzNE>. Hope you share this to your friends and colleagues. I am already finalising my terminal report but I am still waiting for the final parcel of our materials sent to Dr Sivec last October-November 2013.

Another thing is I already resigned from my previous institution and I am currently working at the Math and Science Department, College of Arts and Sciences, University of Mindanao, Davao City 8000 Philippines (my new address).
