

Project Update: March 2019

It's long since I communicated about my project. I have done my best, though the dry conditions have been not friendly with my biodiversity conservation activities.

However, our habitat is doing well. I would like to allow me to submit the final report by the end of this week (Friday). So far this is how old the trees.

