Project Update: June 2018

The farmers have been showing intense commitment towards the progress of the project. The farmers involved have grown their crops (maize, yam and plantain) and have helped to peg 12 ha of the land. More than 10,000 seedlings of teak and about 600 seedlings of other trees have been planted. The farmers and the labourers assisting the implementation of the project are now waiting to see the survival rate of the planted seedlings so that beating up can be done. Teak seeds for beating up have already been nursed and are being taken care of.
