

Project Update: October 2021

Due to the coronavirus crisis, we were not able to organise the planned photo exhibition on saline true bugs in the timeframe of our last project, thus this activity was done recently. On the 6th October 2021, we managed to organise this small event at the Department of Biology and Ecology, at the University of Novi Sad, in collaboration with the Scientific Research Society of Biology and Ecology Students "Josif Pančić" from Novi Sad. An oral presentation of our results was also held, so students and colleagues had an opportunity to hear about our activities on the Rufford projects. We talked about our experiences in the field and the scientific work we have done in the past 6 years. We presented the methods we used, implemented experimental designs and applied data analyses. Also, one of the goals of the lecture was to present various ways how to communicate research achievements to the scientific community, aiming to educate students in this field and helping them in their future scientific engagement.
