

Project Update: October 2023

In coordination with the Nepal Dhole Team, I am pleased to inform you that my conservation partner and I have successfully conducted the 2nd International Dhole Conservation event.

One of the highlights of this initiative was the publication of a journal book that comprehensively outlines the various activities and conservation efforts related to dholes in Nepal. This journal book was prominently featured during the Dhole Conference and has received positive feedback. I had the privilege of presenting my research work, which focused on Parsa National Park, at the conference.

Furthermore, I am currently actively involved in the preparation of the National Dhole Action Plan, which is another significant step in our ongoing conservation efforts.
