

Project Update: July 2009

We finished the documentation of orange-headed thrush harvesting practice by farmers and its breeding biology in a documentary film and booklet by the end of June 2009. Both media are essential to communicate the research findings to farmers and bird-keeping hobbyists.

We have already circulated the booklet to farmers within the study areas. Mainly we have used an online forum at www.kicaumania.org to share the research findings with the bird-keeping hobbyists and songbird contest organisers. The forum has more than 10,000 members with more than 1000 active members each month. The documentary film can be seen on the www.youtube.com using the link below:

First chapter:

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9N5Wx5MB5Us>

Second chapter:

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=BDl1qNNfXBM&layer\_token=9a31bf3edc784950

Or on <http://www.dailymotion.com/video/k1ew8OFhtk3dTB17qjG> with login using user name: wisnuprabowo and password: anismerah

In July 2009 we will publish our research findings in a weekly tabloid newspaper and finalize the final report of the project.

