

Project Update: April 2011

The beekeepers have been trained, material purchased and the apiaries are constructed and equipped. What we are doing now is monitoring and follow up of the project, all success and lessons learnt will be included in report on the project at the end. By implementing the above mentioned project, I have been awarded a 4 months course on beekeeping for poverty alleviation in Gent University, Belgium (from May to August 2011). While in Belgium, my colleague Esperance is following the project and we are in regular contact.
