

Project Update: September 2006

An outstanding achievement. 21 September at Comodoro Rivadavia, the Government of Chubut Province and the Administration of National Parks signed an agreement to create the first National Marine Park in Argentina in... Northern Golfo San Jorge!!

We are really, really happy! Our loved area, with its dolphins, sea lions and seabirds will be finally protected and recognized in our province and our Nation. This is a collective achievement. Even if political arrangements were conducted by the most important NGO in Patagonia, the permanent strategy of community and government awareness carried out by our project, through emotive newspaper articles, talks and reports submitted to key politicians, were vital in the final decision. Now, it will be needed a hard cooperative work to plan the area, and to achieve agreements with the fishing and oil industry.

We will continue in this track, creating awareness and inspiring change, a real and effective change.
